Best Swedish restaurants in Tokyo

Finding the best Swedish restaurants in Tokyo may be a bit challenging, as Tokyo is not particularly known for its Swedish cuisine. However, there are some international restaurants that offer Swedish dishes or have a Scandinavian influence. Here are a few places you can explore for Swedish or Scandinavian cuisine in Tokyo:

1. A-Factory: A cozy restaurant located in the Aoyama area, A-Factory offers a Scandinavian-inspired menu, including Swedish meatballs, gravlax, and other Nordic dishes. It's known for its laid-back atmosphere and friendly staff.
2. Swedish Club Restaurant: Located in Minato City, the Swedish Club Restaurant often features traditional Swedish dishes on its menu. Check their schedule for special events and themed dinners.
3. Blue Parrot Café: While not exclusively Swedish, this café in Shibuya often has Scandinavian-style dishes on its menu, including open-faced sandwiches and Swedish desserts.
4. Ikea Restaurant: Yes, it may not be a traditional Swedish restaurant, but if you're looking for Swedish meatballs and other Swedish comfort food, you can visit the Ikea restaurant in Tokyo.
5. Stockholm Café: This café in Shimokitazawa offers Scandinavian-inspired dishes and coffee. While not a dedicated Swedish restaurant, it's worth a visit if you're in the area and looking for Scandinavian flavors.
